

ColumbiaHeartSource

Join Columbia HeartSource as we celebrate our 11th Annual Network Day Event. This one-day symposium is designed to provide strategies for visionary clinicians and administrators to build an effective, innovative, and high-value cardiovascular service line in this rapidly evolving health care environment. The program will provide a comprehensive review of evolving specialties, emphasizing significant technological advances in the treatment of advanced cardiovascular disease.

The program offers administrative, financial, and clinical topics, with an emphasis on enhancing your ability to provide high-value, quality-driven care. Nationally and internationally recognized experts will give lectures in a multidisciplinary format, in a venue that fosters interprofessional dialogue and networking.
